This document clarifies what I offer.

Dr. Judith Weber: I am a cognitive-based coach. My training includes cognitive therapy and spiritual counseling. I earned a PhD in The History of Religion from the University of California at Modesto (online school).

The session: Using cognitive techniques and psychic insights, we examine old patterns to discover how they influence the client's life choices.

The psychic information I receive facilitates an understanding of a client's life history and how it influences the client's current life situation. Psychic insights are neither predictions of the future nor a substitute for the client's responsibility in making his or her own choices.

If you have any mental pathologies I determine are beyond my training, I reserve the right to recommend you to someone who is trained to work with that pathology and/or end your treatment with me.

I, the undersigned, have read and understand this document.
